

The Phillipian.

VOL. XIV.

PHILLIPS ACADEMY, ANDOVER, MASS., JUNE 11, 1892.

NO. 67.

Communication.

Editors of The Phillipian.

The members of the Natural History Society would doubtless be pleased to learn of a place where many rare specimens of Indian make, and of geological origin can be seen.

Such a collection can be found at the home of Mr. Folensbee, in West Andover, who is always willing to entertain visitors by showing them the works of nature and those of a prehistoric tribe.

A half day spent with him would be one of profit, and those that embrace the opportunity will be well rewarded.

Morton Street 6, School Street 2.

Morton Street beat School Street by the above score, on Monday afternoon in the first championship game. Pardee pitched a splendid game throughout, striking out eight men, and but three safe hits were made off his delivery. Thompson, '94, struck out six men. Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5
Morton Street,	0	1	0	5	0	6
School Street,	0	2	0	0	0	2

Morton Street 11, Blunt House 6.

Morton St. won her second championship game Wednesday, on the Theologie campus. The playing of both sides was characterized by general listlessness, and the game was devoid of brilliant plays. Archbald put up a good game at first with Morton St. and Lang caught well. For Blunt House, Haldeman and Johnson played the best game. Jennings led the batting with two hits and a sacrifice. Six men were struck out by each pitcher, and only two hits were made on each side. Batteries: Morton Street, Smith and Lang; Blunt House, Johnson and Cowin. Umpires: Wilder, '92, and Lindenberger, '93. The score by innings follows:

	1	2	3	4	5
Morton Street,	2	1	3	7	x	11
Blunt House,	1	1	3	0	1	6

Camera Club Exhibit.

Announcements will soon be made concerning the annual Camera Club exhibition, which of recent years has been such a marked event in the spring term. Cash prizes will be given for the best work, which will greatly increase the interest in the affair. Many photos have already been submitted, and several hundred more are expected, so that, in all probability, it will be the best exhibition ever given here by the students. All intending to submit work are requested to hand a list of their pictures to Hooker, '92, on or before Wednesday, the 18th, so that the catalogues may be issued in advance.

Senior Party.

The annual senior party given by Dr. Bancroft was held in the new Science Building on Thursday night. It was a very enjoyable affair and one which will be long remembered by those who were fortunate enough to be present. The two upper classes of the Abbot Academy were invited and seemed to have turned out in full force. There was also quite a number of Andover folks, and most of the members of the Phillips faculty and also of the Abbot faculty. The rooms were brightly lighted and plainly but tastefully decorated. The most conspicuous ornament was a large "92" made of white flowers and hung against a green background. Dr. and Mrs. Bancroft with Prof. and Mrs. Graves received, and by nine o'clock the rooms were well filled. After being introduced all were left to amuse themselves, and they succeeded very well for they seemed to have a very enjoyable time. The refreshments were served about half-past nine and at a little after ten the party broke up.

The New Infirmary at Yale.

The erection of the Yale Infirmary has been commenced, and it is hoped, will be completed at the beginning of the college year next Fall. The structure, which is to be of brick with stone trimmings, will cost $25,000. The building will be made up of four stories, with the basement mostly above ground. The basement is planned to contain the kitchen, servants' rooms, laundry, boiler-room, and bath rooms. On the first floor are to be the matron's room, reception hall and parlor, dining room, pantry, three bed rooms, and bath room. There will be on the second floor ten bed rooms, and a number of bath rooms; while on the third floor will be seven bed rooms and the store rooms. Hard wood finish will be used throughout, while careful attention will be paid to the heating and plumbing arrangement.

The Harvard Crew.

The Harvard crew with their shells, arrived at the club house on the Thames Tuesday afternoon. Until July 1st the crew will row twice each day, in the morning and late in the afternoon.

The positions are now definitely settled, and unless unforeseen accidents occur, the following men will row against Yale:

	WEIGHT.
Stroke, Lyman,	168
7, Kelton,	192
6, Acton,	187
5, Waters,	179
4, Winthrop,	165
3, Cummings,	180
2, Rantoul,	168
Bow, Newell,	168

The general opinion is that Yale is rowing the faster, but her men are not in good condition.

Kayle will not be able to coach Harvard, and this means much, since Yale is to have Bob Cook and Phil Allen, captain of '90's, crew constantly on hand to give the finishing touches. The race promises to be close and exciting, and neither crew need feel itself the winner until the line has been crossed.

The Cole Batting Medal.

The gold medal presented by J. N. Cole to the highest batter on the Phillips team is now on exhibition in the Bookstore window.

It is of solid 14 kt gold made in the form of a bar and pendant, the latter bearing the inscription "P.A. Base Ball, 1892, Cole Batting Medal," around which is chased a laurel wreath.

It is a beautiful bit of jeweller's work, reflecting great credit on the designers and manufacturers C. A. W. Crosby & Son of Boston.

University Magazine at Harvard.

It is not generally known, even among Harvard graduates, that for several months past arrangements have been made towards the publication of a University Magazine and that already the plans are well matured by the graduates who are interested. This idea was proposed at a dinner of the class of '78 which was held in the early winter, and from the discussions which were held at that time, and also on several subsequent occasions, a definite plan and system of the publication has been determined upon and one which will, no doubt, meet with the hearty appreciation of all Harvard men.

A report which gives the comprehensive plan of the magazine has been prepared, for distribution among Harvard men, by a committee appointed for that purpose. This report claims that the very fact of the number of graduates prevents them from gaining any intimate knowledge of the university life, and in this way the inability of Harvard graduates to talk intelligently upon the most important questions which have arisen concerning the management of the college, is accounted for. To this circumstance is due, the ignorance of graduates in regard to athletics, and the committees are being constantly criticised, because there is no means of acquainting the graduates with the true state of affairs, and enabling them to give that intelligent criticism which is always of advantage. The paper will not be of distinctive literary features but will be devoted to these three things:

"A record of the life of the university."

"A record of the life of graduates."

"A medium of communication, and an opportunity for the interchange of opinions between these two bodies and among the different elements of each."

The price will be fixed at $1 per year and the control will be assumed by an association which any graduate of the University may join upon the payment of $5 per year. It is proposed to issue the magazine early in July, October, January, and April, with extra numbers as needed.—Exonian.

Dartmouth Men in Massachusetts.

Chief Justice Field, of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts is a graduate of Dartmouth College; so is Judge Staples; so is Judge Blodgett; so is Judge Maynard; so is Judge Hopkins; and so is the recently appointed Judge Richardson, all of the Supreme Court of that state. Harvard College is a very wealthy institution, and puts on plenty of style, but when it comes to a hunt for men of ability and character for the bench, or almost any other position, even Massachusetts goes to Dartmouth, and finds what she wants. Judge Richardson is one of the new Dartmouth Trustees recently elected by the alumni.—Ex.

The only official score cards at today's game will be sold by Lake and Williams. They are the handsomest of the kind ever gotten up here, being printed in red, blue, and black on fine translucent bristol board, and containing half-tone cuts of the Andover-Exeter teams. They will make very tasty souvenirs of to-day's game.

PHILLIPIAN board meetings are held Wednesday and Saturday noons.

Entered as second-class matter at the Andover Post Office.

THE ANDOVER PRESS, PRINTERS.

We have come now to the final contest of the year. The year's record is one to make every Phillipian's heart beat high and proudly. At every meeting with our rivals we have come off victorious, and, what is still greater cause for pride, victorious in fair, open contest through genuine merit. It remains to crown the success of the year by a final triumph; and yet we know how little certainty there is in all such contests, and so we enter upon the meeting this afternoon full of hope, yet free from undue confidence. The game will be a close one, and with favoring weather we may expect to have a larger crowd present than has ever before witnessed an Andover-Exeter game. These games are becoming each year more and more interesting to the general public as exhibitions of strength, skill, and nerve. The whole school, then, as well as the team, is on parade to-day.

In our team we have confidence, and justly, for every man has worked to the best of his ability. All that the school asks of the team is to play for P. A. In that spirit they will play the game of their lives. The school wants no individual playing, no playing for records. It expects and desires victory only as the reward of good, steady, cool playing. Many a game has been won in the ninth inning, after two men were out and two strikes called on the third.

But the team has a right to expect something of the school, too. It expects and must have the active and enthusiastic support of every fellow. Games can be won by cheering and lost for the want of it. Good cheering, hearty and concentrated, is a large factor for success. The team expects the school to show the same spirit as it must show to win. We must be prepared to give up some little comfort or endure some little inconvenience to aid as far as in our power toward securing a victory this afternoon. Accident may win or lose the game for us, but it cannot take away the satisfaction of having done our best or the reproach of having done less.

Yale's New Gymnasium.

Work on the new Yale gymnasium is progressing rapidly and from present appearances the building will be opened to the public for inspection on Tuesday, June 28th, and will be entirely ready for use by next autumn.

During the past few weeks the floor of the gymnasium proper, which occupies the two top stories of the building, has been laid and the wainscoting and seats finished and varnished. The running track has also been completed and the room is in readiness for the gymnasium apparatus.

The swimming tank, situated on the first floor, will be ready for use as soon as the bottom, which is to be constructed of white brick, similar to those upon the sides of the tank, has been laid. The rowing tanks will be completed next week, after the beds have been laid out and cemented. The small staircases leading to the second floor and basement are now being put in place, and separated by marble slabs. The elevator shaft has been completed, but, except in the gymnasium proper, there remains a great deal of wood-work to be done. The work of the stone-cutters and plumbers is nearly finished, so that the carpenters will soon be able to proceed more rapidly. Around the outside of the building a walk has been constructed, and the ground behind the building is to be graded off, in view of the proposed track.—Ex.
